10 Schools should exercise great care that students are not released to persons other than 11 parents unless parents have specifically authorized such release.

12
13 If a parent enrolls a child and notifies the school that said child is not to be released to 14 the other parent, the school is to require this request in writing and on the basis that the 15 other parent does not have custodial rights to the child. The request will require legal 16 documentation providing custody rights. Until legal documentation is received, the 17 school cannot be certain which parent has custody, and will release the student to either 18 parent.

20 Unless legal evidence to the contrary is provided, both parents have access to the 21 child's records regardless of custody status.
